

Partney denies new Brimberry claims

DANIEL PARTNEY REFUTING ALLEGATIONS YESTERDAY

By GARY SCHNEIDER
of the Press-Record

Particularly-heated custody battle between Brimberry and his ex-wife, Beverly, of Belleville, for a rash of allegations leveled during the weekend of the two.

St. Louis Post-Dispatch, in a fight story Sunday, alleged that investigators are studying allegations by Thomas Brimberry, a central figure in the investigation of the case of Stix & Co. brokerage firm in St. Louis, that nearly $75,000 of Brimberry's money had been used to finance the April election bid of Dan Partney for mayor of Granite City.

Partney claimed only a $500 donation from Brimberry on his campaign financial disclosure statement filed with the county clerk.

Partney contends that Brimberry's statements, if they actually were made by Brimberry, are false and are likely connected with what Partney called "a romantic involvement" between Beverly Partney and Brimberry, which, he says, started about a month before the April election.

Partney disagrees. She told the Press-Record at last night's fundraising dance for Hospice of Madison County at St. Elizabeth Medical Center that she personally saw Brimberry hand a large bundle of bills she estimated at least $25,000 in cash, to her husband in a back room of the former Partney for mayor campaign headquarters on Madison Avenue before the election. She also said that she believes Brimberry donated even more than that to her husband's campaign.

She denies any romantic involvement with Brimberry. She also said she does not know where Brimberry or his wife, Janice, or their children are, but has done favors for the Brimberys at the request of their attorney, Ron Stanley of Belleville, as a favor to Mrs. Brimberry.

Mrs. Partney said she paid the taxes on the Brimberry's two houses here because, "Janice asked me to pay the taxes." She added, however, "I do nothing without the advice of the attorney."

Leon Scroggins, Dan Partney's attorney, says he intends to commence libel action as soon as possible against Brimberry, Mrs. Partney and the Post.

Council 'showdown' tomorrow on tax plan

By GEORGE ANN MCGEE
of the Press-Record

"Well, gentlemen, maybe we are headed for a showdown," Alderman Casmer Skubish of the First Ward, said of tomorrow night's Granite City Council meeting.

Skubish made his prediction for divided council votes on Mayor Paul Schuler's tax package and aldermanic proposals for further city-worker cuts at what turned out to be informal meeting of aldermen Wednesday.

First there were three, then there were six, but never a quorum at the special caucus called by Alderman Sam Whitmer of the Second Ward. Whitmer had asked for a full council caucus to discuss what direction aldermen should take at tomorrow's meeting, but instead he got an informal rap session.

At the Dec. 1 council meeting, Whitmer decided to seek the special meeting when some aldermen indicated they would only support Mayor Paul Schuler's three-point tax package if more city workers are cut from the payroll. Sometime during the week, however, a special breakfast caucus was called for Saturday, Dec. 5, when personnel cuts were discussed.

Aldermen Whitmer, Paul Fisk of the Third Ward and Fred "Pat" Schuman of the Second Ward, who were not in attendance in the last-minute Saturday session, in addition to Aldermen Skubish, Warren Decatur of the Fourth Ward and Jake Varadian of the Fifth Ward, who were at the Saturday caucus, waited in vain Wednesday night for other aldermen to arrive.

Whitmer contended that no one has the right to cancel a meeting that has been called for on the council floor. Fisk, who was unable to arrange his schedule for the Saturday session, said that last week's meeting points out one of the problems with the council "pulling in different directions."

Whitmer used the informal Wednesday

Some aldermen support tax package only with staff cuts session to say he would back the mayor's tax package, which includes a 5 percent telephone tax, a $3-per-month tax for employers on each employee, and a revised sales tax of 3/4 percent, with a "cap" of $3.75 on any one purchase.

Whitmer said his biggest complaint was the rejection by the council of a utility tax, but said "too much pressure" was put on the council for it to approve a utility tax.

Schuman told Whitmer that with the tax levy increase should have been approved earlier this fiscal year.

Schuman said the city could have "taken care of itself" if a $500,000 increase he had recommended, had been last fall.

He called an increase in the levy the "most equitable tax," and said 60 percent of the tax would be paid by industry. According to Schuman, the raise would have been an average cost of $20 more per household, which he said would have been less expensive than the proposed tax package.

Schuman said that if the property tax were properly explained to the homeowners, they would not object to their property tax bills. If there was no police protection and people had to hire their own security, it would be far more expensive, he said. "Who wouldn't write a check for $300 for police protection?" Schuman asked.

Schuman said a lot of people oppose the head tax and sales tax. "We should have gone with the levy—a tax people understand," Schuman said the council rejected the increased levy "before anyone really realized what problems we had," he contended.

Fisk said that he believes the council should pass a special tax for trash collection, so people would know exactly where their tax dollars are going.

Fisk said Granite City is not in a unique economic position and said he still thinks the earnings tax is worth investigating through the state legislature. Fisk said State Rep. Sam Wolf and Sen. Sam Vadala are running for re-election, and that time is right to seek their help in getting the state to approve an earnings tax for cities.

Varadian asked those attending the caucus to attend another caucus at 6 p.m. tomorrow, prior to the Tuesday council meeting, but some members said they felt the issues should have been discussed last week, when a meeting had been called from the council floor.

"There's nobody that can call off this

'Shang' re-elected

Walter "Shang" Greathouse of Granite City, who informally took over the day-to-day operations of the Metro-East Sanitary District after an employee "housecleaning" about 2 1/2 years ago, has been re-elected president of the board of trustees. He begins his second term as president this month.

Greathouse was appointed as a trustee of the district four years ago by Madison County Chairman Nelson Hagnauer, and has since assumed a 50 to 60-hour-per-week schedule at the sanitary district's offices in Granite City.

Greathouse, a real estate agent by profession, said he receives only $3,800 a year as a board member for managing the district, which oversees two wastewater treatment plants and surface drainage control of about 100 square miles in Madison and St. Clair County.

Greathouse said he wanted to use the beginning of the district's new year to mention "optimistic" possibilities for the upcoming year and account the progress the financially-troubled district has made since cutting the staff from about 100 employees to the present staff of 38.

"If we are lucky, we'll be able to get by without tax anticipation warrants this year," said Greathouse. He said he does not foresee the necessity for borrowing to meet the 1982 payroll.

The district had to borrow $300,000 in anticipation warrants last fiscal year.

Demos find treasurer race toughest choice

By BILL WINTER
of the Press-Record

One of their choices will be an easy one for Madison County Democratic panelists. But tonight's endorsement of the county treasurer office will be difficult for the central committee, officials said at a dinner meeting of the three-way primary race has been announced by Treasurer Michael Schaus of Bethalto and two who hope to succeed him, Fred Finkbeiner of Granite City and Edwardsville resident Robert Stille. The last time it was a bitter, three-way Democratic primary battle—for state's attorney in 1980—Republicans "won the war" by capturing the office.

A 15-member Democratic panel interviewed prospective candidates Friday night and Saturday afternoon. It will give its recommendations this evening at a dinner meeting of the county Democratic party's full 36-member executive committee.

Presiding at the public interviews held at the Edwardsville Holiday Inn was Granite City Democratic Chairman William Harrison, representing Madison County Democratic Chairman Chris Costello, who was completing a hospital stay.

Little or no controversy is anticipated over endorsements for seven of the county area incumbents.

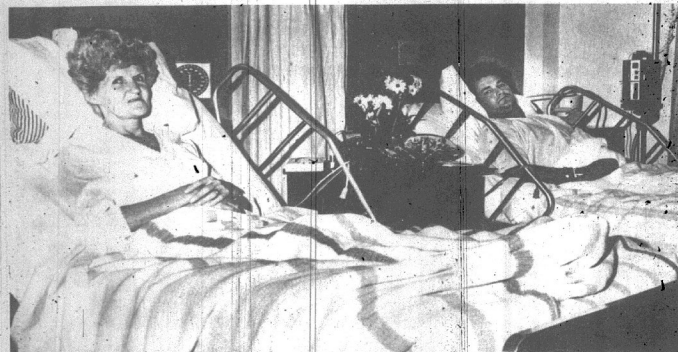

They are the regional school superintendent (Harold E. "Gene" Briggs), state representatives (Sam Wolf here and Jim McPike in Alton), county clerk (Evelyn Bowles, who did not appear before the panel), Congressman (Melvin Price), sheriff (Emil Toffant) and state senator (Sam Vadala). The first four named have no announced opposition in the March 16 primary election.

Most of the incumbent officials are highly popular, and experienced no difficulty in fielding diverse questions from the panel.

Floyd Fessler Jr., running for Congress, Ralph D. Brawley, a candidate for sheriff, and Mike Manning, campaigning for the Illinois Senate, did not seek to appear for endorsement interviews. It is regarded as highly unlikely that they could garner official party backing in the primary against proven vote-getters Price, Toffant and and was taken to the emergency room. There, it was diagnosed that he had gall stones, was admitted and later placed in the same room as his wife. She was released during the weekend, but her husband, a former Granite City resident, remains in the center for treatment.

Tello, Mrs. Claus, is Santa there?

By GARY SCHNEIDER
of the Press-Record

"Hello, Mrs. Claus, is Santa there?" That is something Mrs. Virginia Peters of C.D. Peters Construction Co. heard plenty of, approximately 20 a day since Santa's Cabin was set up in Crossroads Plaza Shopping Center.

It seems that the company's phone number was left on a company office trailer when it was moved Crossroads Plaza Shopping Center be donated for use as Santa's quarters.

Hundreds of little tots have mistaken number on the trailer for Santa's sured telephone number and feel, all, that what they really want for Christmas is only a telephone call.

At first, Mrs. Peters was amused. "It is fun for a while. I did them was a Claus and sometimes, I would turn phone over to Carl (Peters, her husband), as Santa."

The little ones were so cute. They did ask for footie dolls and other

Expect 5 storms this winter

An average of five severe winter storms will strike Illinois during the winter. Steve Hilberg, a meteorologist at the Illinois State Water Survey, says these storms, normally occurring between November and April, produce more damage in the state than any other short-term severe weather events, such as tornadoes or heavy thunderstorms.

Many high school students employed

High school students are spending more time after school making money than completing homework assignments, according to responses on a survey by the State Board of Education. That response is among the findings of the State Board's Illinois High School and Beyond (HSB) study of the educational, occupational and family plans of high school students.

The Illinois study, adapted from the National Center for Education Statistics' HSB survey, is designed to provide data that will aid the board in developing educational policies. Also, the study will collect follow-up information on the students in future years.

Students were asked questions in six topical areas: school, coursework and study; activities outside of school; students' attitudes about themselves; attitudes toward services; future educational plans; and family and plans for now and the future.

The statewide sample of public high school students included 1,786 sophomores and 1,527 seniors from various races and socioeconomic backgrounds.

Among the data, the study revealed that two-thirds of Illinois' high school students spend three to five hours or less per week doing homework. The study also indicated that about 12 percent of the senior students work full-time jobs and an estimated 40 percent work over 20 hours per week. Sophomores worked about 15 hours per week.

Television viewing also accounted for a large portion of a student's time after school. Half the students spent three or more hours per day watching television, while 18 percent of the seniors and 23 percent of the sophomores reported five or more hours per day.

Many high school students are planning to attend college. More than half of the students plan to pursue some form of post-secondary education after high school. Female students outnumbered males in this category (58 percent to 52 percent).

Also, the study revealed that 30 percent of the seniors said they would like to study business. The second most popular field of study was engineering (10 percent). Six percent of the students preferred education as a field of study.

Students participating in the HSB survey were work-oriented. "Being successful in my line of work" (89 percent) and "finding steady work" (85 percent) were ranked the highest of 12 life goals.

The statewide sample showed that one-third of the high school seniors reported they had taken remedial English; 30 percent, remedial mathematics; 17 percent, advanced English; and 25 percent, advanced mathematics.

Of the seniors who took remedial English, 70 percent also took remedial mathematics. Eighteen percent of the students who took remedial English later enrolled in advanced English courses. However, only 10 percent of the students who took remedial classes for mathematics later enrolled in advanced classes.

Also, remedial students, when contrasted with advanced students, clearly perceived teachers as showing less interest in them. Remedial students were more likely to judge the quality of instruction as "fair to poor."

In the area of life goals, "finding the right person to marry and having a happy family life" was rated as very important by 81 percent of the seniors. But only 37 percent of the students rated "having children" as very important.

The survey also noted differences in how male and female students ranked certain life goals. For example, the seniors' responses show males more often than females rated "having lots of money" as very important (44 percent to 23 percent).

To examine the perceptions of youth on national service, the HSB survey asked students: "If there were a program of compulsory national service after high school, with options of military service or community service, what would you most likely do?" Responses were that 17 percent would choose the military; 24 percent would choose public service; 25 percent were uncertain of their choices; and a third of the students would try to avoid either option.

In addition to being utilized by the State Board for research and planning, the HSB data will be made available to researchers and policy analysts at colleges, universities and other educational institutions across the state.

Winter housing for commuters near university

An agreement between Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville and the nearby Holiday Inn continues to provide housing to commuter students who choose not to risk the hazards of winter driving.

Terms of the agreement, according to Linda Wense, supervisor of SIUE's Student Housing Office, allow the Edwardsville Holiday Inn at Sunset Hill, near Interstate 270 and Ill. 157, to rent a limited number of rooms to students at a monthly rate during the winter quarter.

Students participating in the program get a regular motel room with standard furniture, telephone, television, indoor swimming pool and jacuzzi privileges, plus weekly cleaning services, for $200 for one person, one-bed accommodations, or $300 for double occupancy room.

Students, however, must furnish their own sheets, pillowcases, blankets, towels and washcloths and are subject to the usual regulations governing student housing on campus, she said.

The rooms, all in one section of the complex, will be available during the winter quarter, beginning Jan. 4.

Information and application forms are available at the SIUE Housing Office in Rendleman Building, Room 1113, or by calling Linda Wense at 692-3931.

New drunken driving law for New Year's

Secretary of State Jim Edgar has warned Illinois drivers who may be tempted to have "one too many" on New Year's Eve that a new drunk driving law will go into effect at midnight Dec. 31.

"The new law streamlines the arrest procedure in drunken driving cases. It makes it easier for law enforcement personnel to enforce the drunk driving law and other traffic safety measures," Edgar said.

"There will be no more 90-minute periods for drivers to decide whether they want to take an alcohol test."

"The penalty for refusing to take an alcohol test is doubled to a six-month suspension of driving privileges. And a refusal can be used against the driver in court.

"Under the old law, it often took half of an officer's eight-hour shift just to process a single drunk driver."

"By eliminating the 90-minute waiting period, it will be easier to process drunk drivers. And officers will be able to get back on the road sooner to enforce the new law and other traffic safety laws."

"This new law is designed to save lives. It has its work cut out for it, when you consider that of the almost 2,000 traffic fatalities in Illinois in 1980, half were caused by drunk drivers."

"Add to that grim statistic another 85,000 persons injured as a result of drunk drivers, and it is easy to see why the drunk driving problem is the most critical traffic safety problem in Illinois today."

New 'open meeting law' procedures

The Southern Illinois University Board of Trustees approved amendments Thursday to bring the board's policies into conformity with the revised Illinois Open Meetings Act which becomes effective Jan. 1.

University officers said the SIU policy approved in June 1980 anticipated nearly all of the reforms later enacted by the General Assembly, but a few amendments were necessary.

The new law no longer permits the scheduling of an executive session as such. There must be an open meeting, a motion to adjourn into executive session specifying the topic, and then a roll call vote on that motion.

Other changes in the law to which the SIU board will have to conform include:

—Final action on land acquisition may no longer occur in closed session.

—The notice of a special rescheduled or reconvened meeting, with over 24 hours intervening, must include the agenda.

—Emergency meetings may be held on shortened notice.

—Probable or imminent litigation may be discussed as well as that already filed; and minimal minutes of closed sessions must be kept.

Adjustment of internal SIU procedures will be necessary to conform to the requirements, in addition to adoption of the amendments approved Thursday, a discussion showed.

Car strikes student, 14.

A student, 14 years old, was struck by an auto near Granite City High School South after dark at 5:10 p.m. Thursday.

Edward D. Hoffman, 2803 Buxton Ave., was taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Medical Center for treatment.

He was crossing Nameoki Road at Jill Avenue and pressed a traffic light button to obtain a "walk" signal. He recalled running eastward into the intersection and then being knocked down by the front of a car.

Rebecca L. Osborne, 26, Alton, westbound on Jill, said she had a green light to turn left onto Nameoki Road. The collision with the pedestrian occurred in the middle of the southbound lanes as she was completing the turn.

Traffic became congested in the area as the ambulance arrived and departed.

Patricia Bartokas heads BAC board

Mrs. Patricia W. Bartokas of Belleville was elected last week as chairman of the Board of Trustees of Belleville Area College. The district includes the Quad-City area.

The first woman to hold the chairmanship, she was selected during an organizational meeting that saw Kenneth Fish of Mascoutah and Wayne Reynolds of Belleville seated as board members. The two replace retiring trustees Edward O'Malley of Belleville and Jack A. Becker of Sparta.

Robert Dintelmann, of Belleville, outgoing board chairman, praised the retiring members, noting that O'Malley served as a trustee for more than 10 years and that Becker had been vice-chairman of the board for the last year and a half.

O'Malley said "BAC board service has been 'the highlight of my experiences in the community.'"

Becker said, "I hope the future will show we have made good decisions. Maybe our thoughts of a few months ago have been proven right."

Christmas spirit prompts delay in sewer bill lawsuit

By JUDY TAPLIN

In the spirit of Christmas, Madison County is going to delay a lawsuit against 680 homeowners in Special Sewer Service Area 1 until January.

The complaint, to be processed through a small claims court, is an attempt to collect unpaid sewer bills from persons on this county's new sanitary system in Nameoki, Chouteau and Venice townships.

The county's data processing equipment has been ready to roll out small claim complaint forms since Dec. 8. But Madison Miles, chairman of the county sewer committee, says it was decided the Christmas season was not a good time to pursue the delinquent accounts.

Miles is hoping the 680 residents will pay their bills in the meantime. "We don't want to sue anybody," he said. "But, frankly, we need the money."

As of the first week in December, the 680 residents owe the county a total of $10,359. Eighty-eight of the 680 owe for two months or more. The 680 are among about 3,500 who have tapped into the new sewers.

Monthly service and maintenance charges per household are $15.80. The 680 are making it difficult for those who do pay, Miles said. "The rest of them have to pay the freight."

He said monthly charges in the special service area may have to be raised again in the near future, if people don't pay their bills.

Miles said he believes the residents who aren't paying are angry that the sewers were installed in the first place. They also resent the fact that they were forced to hook on and don't like the recent increase in monthly fees approved by the county board.

"The fact remains that we need the sewers, and they're here," he said.

Last Wednesday night the county committee decided that as of Jan. 1, all homeowners in the special service area will be paying a sewer bill whether or not they have tapped into the sewers. This will not include those persons involved in litigation with the county.

There are 2,400 persons who are not connected onto the sewers. Criminal charges are being pressed against them, the county said.

The new sewer system is a financial dilemma for the county in more than 100 delinquent monthly charges.

The sewer district sued the contractors, S. M. Wilson & Co., approximately $300,000 and is paying 5 percent interest on what it owes. Miles says that amounts to about $135 a day in interest.

The sewer district has already borrowed more than $400,000 from Madison County, sponsor for the project, and is paying interest on those borrowed funds.

"And if things don't go right, we'll be back again for more," Miles noted.

County officials have been attempting to obtain more than $700,000 the state obtained from a $13 million Illinois Environmental Protection Association (IEPA) grant for the sewer construction.

"The IEPA, however, found a number of defects in the system."

Madison County Assistant State's Attorney Marshall "Zack" Smith views the list of defects as nit-picking. But, Miles says, whether large or small the defects should all have been taken care of in the first place.

Miles said minor defects were corrected in three days' time, after the EPA list was received.

The more major defects, such as the possibility of infiltration of the new sewer line, will take longer to correct, he said. The county is asking that 99 percent of the grant funds be released. However, Miles believes 97 percent is a more realistic figure.

The IEPA recently released $150,000 of the amount retained. Miles said that money will be paid to the contractor to reduce the amount owed him.

The county hopes to have more of the grant money released by the second or third week of January, according to Smith.

The major problem on the EPA list involves sewers in the Brandon Heights area. The sewers were put in the wrong place—not on the easements obtained for them, it is asserted.

Miles said a condemnation suit involving the Brandon Heights sewers was dismissed recently. The sewer committee has decided that moving the sewers will be less costly than continuing a lawsuit, he said.

Miles said he has been told that the cost of moving the sewers will be less than $30,000.

Despite the financial problems facing the new district, Miles is convinced that the people in Special Sewer Service Area 1 are better off than they were before. Miles was against the recent increase in monthly charges, but is solidly for the new sewer system.

"I was for this way back when, and I still am. I am convinced we had to have it."

A board of directors meeting will precede the regular meeting by one hour. A spokesman for the realtors is reminding the public that all real estate offices in the city will be closed Friday and Saturday, Dec. 25 and 26, in observance of Christmas.

Back Pain From A Fall

Many severe back problems originate with or are aggravated by slippery streets and sidewalks that make walking a hazard. Ice, snow and fall, or almost fall. Whatever the cause, the result is often a sore back.

A slip that causes wrenching of the back may result in over-stretching of muscles and ligaments. This in turn can cause a spinal misalignment or, equally serious, the aggravation of any minor misalignment that may have been present for some time.

Chiropactic spinal manipulation is an effective treatment for such types of injuries. For natural, drug-free chiropactic treatment, phone us. There is no charge for consultation.

Don't let thieves ruin Christmas

Careless shoppers make Christmas a bonanza for thieves and a disaster for themselves, says Leonard R. Riccio, director of investigations for Wackenhut Corp., one of the largest international security companies.

"The Christmas rush in stores creates the perfect atmosphere for criminals who prey on consumers. Every year, thousands of shoppers get coffee and have their holidays ruined by pickpockets, purse-snatchers and muggers," he asserts.

But shoppers can protect themselves by taking a few precautions, the official says. These are his recommendations:

—When shopping, take only the cash or the credit cards you will need and keep them in a sturdy purse with a strong strap or zipper. An open purse or a wallet carried in an unbuttoned pocket is an invitation to a pickpocket.

—Try to park in a patrolled or well-lighted area as close to the store as possible. Going to a far corner of a parking lot may ease the hassle for parking spaces, but if you come out of the store after dark with your arms full of packages, you're a perfect target for a purse-snatcher or mugger.

—Inside the store, think security. Keep your eye on, and stay close to, any packages you may have to put down to examine something else. Otherwise, you may find they've suddenly disappeared.

—Put as many packages as you can in a strong shopping bag instead of juggling an armload of individual packages. Put small packages, especially expensive ones like jewelry, in a handbag.

—Have your car keys ready before you leave the store. If you don't have to put a load of packages on the hood of your car and fumble around for the keys, you and your Christmas gifts won't make such a tempting target for thieves.

Major school revenue study

The Technical Advisory Panel for the State Board of Education's Public School Finance Project is holding its first meeting today, at the State Board office in Springfield.

The 15-member panel is comprised of five lay citizens and 10 technical advisors who include State Board of Education staff and personnel from legislative staffs, the governor's office and other state government groups involved in education finance.

The study will focus on a variety of school funding issues, including methods of generating revenue for elementary and secondary education, distribution of state funds and management of local resources by school districts.

Research for the study is scheduled for completion by the end of 1982. Recommendations are to be made to the State Board by mid-1983.

Tasks of the advisory panel will include analyzing research, critiquing data and developing final recommendations for a comprehensive school finance system.

The session will be presided over by organizational members their first time to review and respond to the proposed study.

Rolfe Jamieson, of the board of Savings and Loan Insurance, Peoria, is appointed to chair the panel. He is a former member of the State Board of Education and a former president of the Association of School Boards (ASB).

New Athens, of a management firm in that St. county community, also is a member of the panel. Wirth is a member of the St. county board of education and is a past president of the IASB.

Thompson pledges to continue protection programs for elderly

Governor James R. Thompson said Monday that his administration is committed to maintaining the state's major programs of aid and protection for Illinois residents, despite difficult economic times.

"This governor is one who will maintain our major programs of aid and protection for our people... who will protect the essential services provided by our government... and who will see to it that the people of Illinois who cannot help themselves will be helped," Thompson told those attending the Governor's Human Services Breakfast.

To safeguard the state's minimum levels of service, the governor said, the Thompson administration has put in place a safety net of services to protect Illinois citizens. That includes: assuring minimum income levels to welfare recipients and those on unemployment assistance; no reductions in the state circuit breaker program and low income assistance for energy that is targeted to those in greatest need.

Also, assuring vital and catastrophic health protection for welfare recipients and those who qualify for public assistance because of their health expenditures, guaranteeing services to children that impact their lives, safety and well-being, making no reductions in corrections and public protection and preserving the quality of care for those who are under the direct care of the state.

Staffing ratios in state institutions will be maintained at a level which assures safe and decent care for more than 9,000 residents, Thompson said. The administration also is continuing to make every effort to keep services that help the working poor and not return to the welfare rolls, continuing to operate in-home services for the elderly that will prevent unnecessary uses of nursing homes. New measures will be introduced, he said, to assure that available dollars are targeted to those of greatest need in the elderly population, preserving home health care and employment training for the state's handicapped and continuing to serve the average 150,000 people a day for mental health and developmental disabilities treatment.

"I mention this list because I think it is important to realize that Illinois is keeping its head above water when states all around us are feeling the tide," Thompson told the group. He cited welfare reductions in Michigan, major revenue shortfalls in Washington and Minnesota, major sales tax increases in Wisconsin and Ohio and layoffs in Missouri.

In Illinois, the governor said, controlled spending policies have prevented major cuts in human services programs. "My agencies have cooperated and the legislature has cooperated," he said. "And we're stronger for it."

To illustrate that point, Thompson said that more than one million people are served by the state's $1.6 billion Medicaid program, and about 65,000 people are served through the $180 million General Assistance program.

Adoptive placements are up 32 percent over last year, Thompson said, while the tracking and investigation of child abuse continues to be a top priority of the state. The state's nutrition program for the elderly also has been expanded, along with the state's community care program for the elderly, Illinois is the only state to have a statewide program helping older persons live independently outside of nursing homes, he added.

Greathouse re-elected and double that amount the previous year.

Greathouse said that in the new year, the district will be able to lift a 30 cent (per $100 assessed evaluation) property tax levy that has been assessed to pay off the approximately $8 million bond indebtedness of the district from a 1962 bond issue. The sanitary district had been paying on the bonds for 20 years. Residents, however, will remain obligated to pay the previous levy in the coming year's taxes, but not in subsequent years.

The district is, however, on the brink of another $8 million project to give the Landsdowne Sewage Treatment Plant the ability to give wastewater a secondary purification treatment.

Greathouse said the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) will require the Landsdowne plant to begin with a secondary treatment program, or to close down.

He contended that if the small communities, for which the district acts as lead agent, decide to go through with plans to build a secondary treatment facilities, it would mean lower rates than joining the Granite City or the new Sauget plant.

He said there is a "slight ray of hope" the district will not have to raise sewage treatment bills this year. The sanitary district does plan to close the Cahokia plant in about three years when the Sauget plant is completed. The Cahokia plant has been cited by the state attorney general for dumping raw sewage into the Mississippi River. The sanitary district's president said that $60,000 has been spent to correct problems at the plant, where repairs have been completed. A like amount for repairs will have to be spent on the Landsdowne plant, to bring it into compliance with EPA standards.

"We don't fight the EPA," Greathouse said.

He said the district already is proceeding with a $100,000 study in preparation for the secondary treatment plant at Landsdowne. Seventy-five percent of the costs of the study will be funded through an EPA grant. The other 25 percent must come from communities like Madison and Venice, using the sanitary district.

Greathouse said that "any week" the district should get permission from those communities to go ahead with secondary treatment. Facility plans, although the district is facing an EPA deadline of several months, Greathouse said it is "pretty optimistic" to try to build a plant in a year.

A "big thing" the district has been able to do this year was to "give" Cahokia the expensive-to-operate Cahokia sewer trunk line and seven lift stations that were a tremendous expense to the district, Greathouse said. In addition, he said, a continuing effort to collect back payment claims of the district has resulted in $200,000 more in collections for the Landsdowne wastewater plant, which serves residents in several areas including Madison, Venice and Brooklyn.

Greathouse said sanitary district residents are learning that if they do not pay their sanitary district bills, they will be taken to small claims court. About 30 to 40 cases now are being processed by small claims court, and several hundred liens have been' jumped against property owners who have refused to pay bills.

He said that some people are routinely ignoring their bills. "Word gets around — pretty soon you've got a major problem."

He said the Landsdowne plant has about 7,500 users and he has "the biggest problem about '90 percent' whipped."

"This place is being run like a business now," the president said.

things and I would tell them that Santa would get their message.

"Then I started worrying. What if those things were not under their tree Christmas morning. It was going to be very disappointing," Mrs. Claus, or Peters, commented.

In addition to the worry that she may be misleading the youngsters, Mrs. Peters said the calls disrupted the family schedule. Although the phone number on the trailer was for C.D. Peters Construction Co., it also would ring the Peters' home phone when the office was closed.

"Saturday morning seemed to be a fast time for that, but the calls came also came at night and in the mornings and during the working day. Finally, it got to be too much. We had the workmen cover up the telephone number on the trailer," Mrs. Peters said.

The calls did not totally stop when the number was covered up. "It's amazing," the memories some of these little kids have. They still remember that number," Mrs. Peters noted.

Saying that she didn't know of an official telephone number for Santa, Mrs. Peters concluded, "Wouldn't it be nice if there really was a Santa Claus?" She had to mean wouldn't it be nice if he really had a phone, because we all know, there really is a Santa Claus."

New State Police Dist. 11 commander

Illinois State Police, District Eleven has a new commander with extensive training and experience.

Capt. Laimutis A. Nargelenas, recently promoted to that rank, has been assigned to serve as commander of the Maryville District, replacing Captain Glenn H. Huffman, who is assuming command of District 17, at Peru, Ill.

Prior to this assignment, Capt. Nargelenas served as assistant director, Department of Law Enforcement Academy, Springfield. He joined the state police in July 1969.

Upon completion of his training at the State Police Academy, he was drafted into military service. He served with the Military Police traffic section at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo., for one year, and as the assistant provost sergeant in Korea. In September 1971, he returned to duty with the Illinois State Police and was assigned to District 10, Pesotum, where he was field instructor and first-aid and cardiopulmonary resuscitation instructor and also served with the detective section in that area.

He was then assigned to the State Police Academy as a physical training officer, and later served as academy operations officer, academic service director, assistant director and then director of training.

While assigned to the academy, he was promoted through the ranks of corporal, sergeant and lieutenant. In November, he advanced to the rank of captain.

Nargelenas is originally from Georgetown, Ill., where he attended Georgetown High School. At the University of Illinois, Champaign, he was a member of the varsity football team.

He has a master's degree in legal studies from Sangamon State University, Springfield, and is presently attending Southern Illinois University at Carbondale, working on his dissertation.

He also attended the Northwestern Traffic Institute and the Federal Bureau of Investigation Academy, where he received training as a hostage negotiator.

Capt. Nargelenas and his wife, Tammy, have a daughter, Teresa seven years old. His brother, Paul, 13, lives with them.

They reside in Pawnee, and will be establishing residence in the District 11 area in the future.

FOR AREA'S FARMERS

A regional tillage conference is scheduled for Wednesday, Dec. 16. The program will begin at 9 a.m. at Belleville Area College. Bob Pope, University of Illinois soil specialist, will discuss fitting the tillage system to the soil type.

John Siemens, U. of I. agriculture engineer, will discuss machinery requirements for reduced tillage and no-tillage. The afternoon program will feature a local farmer panel discussing how to successfully use machinery in no-tillage. Other topics will be weed control, insect control, disease control and soil erosion control.

'Come fly with us,' BAC suggests

Veterans and active military personnel may be eligible for benefits when enrolled in an associate degree program at Belleville Area College.

BAC offers associate degrees and certificates in aviation electronics, aviation maintenance and pilot training. Tuition is only $17 per credit hour for in-district students, a spokesman said.

Pilot training classes are held at Bi-State Airport in Cahokia, where BAC owns its own aircraft. The equipment includes flight simulators and five different aircraft.

Commercial pilot licenses also are available through BAC's pilot training.

Aviation electronics includes navigation and radar. These classes, as well as aviation maintenance classes, are held at the Pittman School, 3431 Mississippi Ave., Cahokia.

BAC's programs also are very flexible, as students are allowed 18 hours of electives in order to determine and develop other interests, the spokesman said. Electives can be taken at the main campus, 2500 Carlyle Road, Belleville, or at local extension centers, such as the former Washington School in Granite City and night classes at local high schools. Students in the aviation programs at BAC range from age 17 to a few in their mid-60s. Recent high school graduates to professional people are enrolled in the spokesman said.

Many BAC graduates have gone on to Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville or Carbondale, the University of Illinois or Parks College to earn bachelor's degrees.

Additional information on aviation programs is available from Clarence Hall, pilot training section, 1-235-2700, extension 352, or 1-386-0759, Pak Tong Mac, aviation maintenance section, at 1-337-7199, or Charles Linberg, aviation electronics section at 1-337-7169.

Information on benefits available to veterans and active military personnel can be obtained from the Veterans Service Office, room 2301 at the BAC main campus, or by calling 1-337-2700, extensions 226, 374 or 317.

Our kind of town—another over-the-top United drive

"Our kind of town, the Quad-City area." Paraphrasing Frank Sinatra's song about Chicago, we take our hats off to the local community—Granite City, Madison, Venice, Ponton Beach and Mitchell—which has just sent another United Way campaign surging past its goal.

The question of what kind of community this is was in our minds because of last week's article on "The Great Stix Brokerage Scam" in Barron's, a weekly financial newspaper published in New York.

Not surprisingly, the brokerage collapse made headlines because of the big dimensions of the apparent fraud, perhaps totaling $36 million. And, not unexpectedly, the Granite City area was mentioned prominently because the key figure in the Stix & Co. investigation has resided here in recent years.

What was disappointing was the way this community was pictured in the article.

Perhaps we should not have been surprised to read in Barron's that our town is distinguished by ramshackle homes, boarded-up warehouses, and the melancholy hush of factories working at half-capacity.

In all, all, it is to be believed Barron's, we are a run-down steel mill town, some 15 miles east of St. Louis, sprawling over a featureless Midwestern plain.

And, supposedly, the widely-discussed "broker's mansion" in our city, with swimming pools, palm trees and suna—(in sight of steel mill smokestacks (you might have to be rather tall to see them)).

Old-timers here recall vividly the scandal of a generation ago in which a high governmental official was charged with misusing funds. Correspondents from far and near descended on our city in the 1950's, and some saw fit to describe it as a "grimy mill town."

Interestingly, despite all that grime, a nationwide judging panel several years later concluded that so many positive things were happening here that Granite City was worthy of official status as an all-American city.

Citizen action here was found to be exemplary, producing all kinds of constructive and progressive governmental, business, and quality of life breakthroughs and achievements.

Now, another rhetorical assault has been made on the Quad-Cities by an instant authority. (The out-of-towner who saw so many run-down houses and mills, and who momentarily with his presence while checking up on the stock broker's antics.)

We are, of course, fair game to any and all who wish to pass this way and pronounce their profound judgments on what our town is like. It's a free country, with free speech and press freedom.

Do we deserve to be judged so harshly? There, obviously, are deficiencies here—just as there are in New York, where a Paul Winston motion picture showed an area of the Bronx. In that barren, crime-ridden, fire-ravaged community, despair and destruction reigned supreme. The neighborhood police station became known as "Fort Apache," the only outpost left to defend citizens against violence and depravity.

We did not sit down at our computer terminal to discuss New York's shortcomings. The point is that every community—good, mediocre and bad—produces people of all kinds who conduct themselves well or who perform poorly.

Upright and deceitful persons, pious and profane, the full spectrum of humanity, can be found everywhere. It is neither accurate nor accurate to equate an entire community with one of its notorious products, in order to explain why that individual failed to live up to what had been expected of him.

Television Channel Five in St. Louis fell into the same trap a few days ago, likening an apparent wrongdoer with the area in which he grew up.

After extensive coverage of the stock broker and his big home, Chris Condon of Channel Five related that an alleged gasoline thief occupies a "mansion" at another local address.

Linking the two crime investigations, Condon wondered out loud, for the TV audience's benefit, about recent events related to this community. What, he asked, has come over Granite Cityans lately?

Well, one of the things happening here lately is the annual United Way drive to help finance the 1982 operation of more than a dozen local and regional community service, health, activity, character-building and assistance agencies.

It will be recalled that after nearly a decade of fire failures, our town picked itself up by the hair of its coat, put together a back-to-back United Way successes. And this has happened at a time when some of the industries clearly are producing less than a dozen local and regional community service, health, activity, character-building and assistance agencies.

Now, after stubbing its toe, the Quad-City area again has put together back-to-back United Way successes. And this has happened at a time when some of the industries clearly are producing less than a dozen local and regional community service, health, activity, character-building and assistance agencies.

Led by Melvin Wilmshamer, this fall's drive chairman, local business, employers, employees, organizations and individuals showed they are people who care—and who care enough to do their very best for their fellow men and women, boys and girls.

What kind of town is this?

It's our kind of town, and we're proud to be a part of it.

Freedom of information act needs backing

(Reprinted by permission of the Minneapolis Tribune)

The Freedom of Information Act doesn't have a better friend than the Reagan administration.

That, at least, was the reassuring message brought by an assistant attorney general to a hearing on the act before a committee a couple of weeks ago. "This administration is firmly committed to the faithful implementation of the Freedom of Information Act by all federal agencies," he said.

The letter and the spirit of the act require agencies to respond promptly and fully to requests for information by the general public.

Does that mean that the administration will help defend the act against pending legislative proposals to sabotage it? Not quite. The speaker went on to say that prompt and full responses weren't required when they "would interfere with other important public interests."

So to make sure that the act doesn't work against these other interests, the administration is proposing what it calls a "whodunnit" series of exemptions.

The main flaw in the act, according to its friends in the administration, is that certain provisions "have interfered unduly with proper law enforcement activities and national security functions." That's what the FBI and CIA have been saying for years.

What they haven't said is that existing exemptions shield them from revealing damaging information. The FBI has been unable to cite a single instance in which an informant was injured as a result of information released in a request under the act. The CIA has never lost a Supreme Court appeal of a case in which it resisted a request for information.

Why, then, has the administration accepted the argument that federal law enforcement and national security exemptions—including a provision enabling them to cover up their illegal activities? And if law enforcement is the problem, why not the act's purpose for the other administration amendments?

When agencies now can, and do, stall for months before releasing information, why call for replacing state and local laws with "a more flexible system" for responding to requests?

When would-be information-seekers are already deterred by high fees, why give agencies authority to charge even higher fees, beyond the costs of searching out and duplicating documents?

When businesses are already protected against disclosure of trade secrets, why give them the power to stop release of information on price-fixing or "unsafe conditions" in their products?

The letter and spirit of the Freedom of Information Act are aimed at giving citizens access to information about their government. For substantial, friendly help would nullify that purpose by opening up wide loopholes to permit government agencies to hide their abuses of power, their mistakes, their failure to carry out their duties. Some of the letter of the act would remain—but there would be little left of its spirit.

An concerned taxpayer of West Granite City, I am writing to you to let you know that we, the citizens of West Granite City, want the fire station to stay open. HOUSE BURGULARY

Lacy W. Milton, 4364 Highway 162, discovered that his home had been burglarized between 1:30 p.m. and 2:05 p.m. Wednesday, his house had been burglarized. Guns, cash and jewelry were stolen. Milton is preparing a complete list of the stolen items and is reporting the matter to the Madison County Sheriff's Department. Forced entry to the home was made by a person who used a tool believed to be a screwdriver. Exit was made by the kitchen door.

News notes

At a monthly meeting of the Madison County Board at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday, Member William R. Hains of Alton will introduce a resolution calling for the board to amend its cable television ordinance. The amendment would, in essence, require the board to purchase a new cable television system.

The County Board on Wednesday will consider whether to lease up to 25 sheriff vehicles and/or purchase up to 12 autos for that department.

Also on the County Board agenda are remodeling of the Madison County Courthouse, setting of Madison County Nursing Home resident charges at $925 monthly, installation of a sprinkler system at the nursing home, a stipulation that local sewer district residents be paid $125 monthly whether hooked onto the sanitary sewer system or not, adoption of a pension plan, and presentation of a Madison County governmental office space needs study by Dennis Calvert of Korte Architectural Associates.

The Upper Mississippi River Basin Commission has formally recommended that Congress immediately authorize the engineering, design and construction of a 600-foot lock at the Alton locks and dam replacement project, augmenting the existing locks and dam and new 1,200-foot lock already under construction.

State Rep. Susan Catania of the Chicago area is entering the race for the Republican lieutenant governor nomination. St. Clair County Coroner James Radden will run for state Republican central committee here instead of William Stille, the present committee man. W. Robert Blair of Crete and John P. Daley of Peoria have filed for the Republican state treasurer nomination, and Cal Skinner Jr. of Woodstock is entering the Republican nomination for state attorney general. Opposing Gov. James R. Thompson are John E. Roche of Palos Park and W. A. Kelley of Decatur.

Circuit judge candidates in the Third Circuit include Judge Philip R. Rieck, George Moran Jr., Charles Chapman and John DeLaurentis, the latter running for Bond County judge.

Dixie Lynn Price, a Paxville School third grade pupil, placed third in regional fund-raising for the Multiple Sclerosis Society.

Teamsters employed in the Madison County highway and animal control departments last week unanimously turned down the latest contract proposal from county governmental negotiators.

SIXTH ADDITION TO UNIVERSITY LIBRARY

Release of $9.7 million in capital development bond funds for the sixth addition to the University of Illinois' main library in Urbana was announced last week. It will accommodate the university's increasing library holdings and make possible more useful and efficient storage of the entire collection.

The project will add 76,750 square feet to the library and provide storage for more than 1 million volumes. Construction could begin during the first half of January. The facility is scheduled for substantial completion in December 1983 and final acceptance by the university in February 1984.

'JOHN DOE' IN JAIL

An employee from the Granite City American Legion called police at 3:30 a.m. Sunday, and said that the Legion was closed, but also was afraid to leave because three men were "hanging around" the back door. When police arrived, they found the area when told to do so, but one man did not. After being told four times to leave, he still refused to leave. He was arrested and was taken to the Granite City police station, where he refused to give any information and attempted to fight officers. He was alleged.

Alcoholism office closing Jan. 1

The Madison County Council on Alcoholism and Drug Dependency will close its Granite City office on Jan. 1, 1982.

Charles Buchana, executive director of the Wood River-based agency, said today the decision was made by the board of directors after a reduction in the health funds provided by the Madison County government. The County Board decided on Nov. 25 to cut the agency's funding by $25,000 for the December 1981-November 1982 fiscal year.

Buchana said the County Board's action left his agency with "no alternative but to cut staff and reduce services."

"We expect to lay off one or two employees and reduce the client population by about 30 people," he added.

Clients being seen in the Granite City office will be referred to the Wood River and Edwardsville, but some will not be able to make the change due to a lack of transportation, Buchana commented.

The agency is working on alternative arrangements for Granite City residents who need help with alcohol and drug problems.

"We intend to ask St. Elizabeth Medical Center and the Alcoholics Rehabilitation Community Home in Granite City to help take care of clients who might be left stranded," Buchana said.

"The Alcoholics Rehabilitation Community Home (ARCH) is a halfway house for alcoholics and the hospital operates a residential treatment facility. Neither of these offers outpatient services for alcoholics, however."

"There also is ADDCO (Alcohol and Drug-Dependence Council of St. Clair County) in East St. Louis, some outpatient services are available there."

Demo screening

"Adalabene, and their non-appearance. Also may rule them out."

Sheriff Toffant said he would accept county committee support, and, when prompted, added that he would welcome it. The party officialdom did not back him in the primary four years ago, when he won by a big margin.

Treasurer Henkhaus, also an "outsider" to the inner party circle in past elections, sought endorsement for himself but emphasized that he will run anyway, regardless of what the committee decides. He said he is "a Democrat, not an independent Democrat."

Most persons in the audience expressed support privately for Stille, Painter and Henkhaus, indicating that a closely-contested race may develop.

Their comments were separate from the formal sessions, where the only persons speaking were candidates and partyists.

Henkhaus' performance as county treasurer was attacked directly by Painter near the start of the screening process Friday evening. The next day, Henkhaus' performance was attacked, and predicted he will win reelection.

His rival, Painter, saw it. "The problem with Henkhaus is that he is not a problem and his own lack of knowledge or interest in properly running the county is a problem."

And I've been working on a cash management program which will assure that 100 percent of the county's funds are available."

"I feel very confident about being re-elected and would like to have your endorsement, and see the party reunited."

"If we have a strong slate of endorsed candidates—especially if they are capable, experienced and proven winners—it will show party unity and we can go on to defeat the Republicans in the general election," he concluded.

almost 21 percent of the total Democratic county vote.

"I believe I have the necessary power base on which to run an effective and winning campaign."

He said he has served as vice-president of the Young Democrats of Illinois, treasurer of the Granite City Democratic Club, and treasurer of Madison County Employees Local 799, American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees.

Paintor said high interest would be sought for county investments but all lending institutions would be allowed to participate.

First of the candidates to be questioned was Cong. Price, House Armed Services Committee chairman, who discussed national defense, and the last was Henkhaus.

State Democratic Central Committee member Bruce Cook of Belleville was expected but did not arrive prior to the screening group's adjournment at 4:30 p.m. Saturday.

One of the decisions to be made tonight, other than the Madison County treasurer endorsement, is whether to support Willard V. "Butch" Portell or Herbert Schlarmann for the Democratic state senator nomination in the 55th District.

With Sen. James Donohoe of Breese moving up to run for state treasurer, Schlarmann, Trenton mayor for 13 years, also included in the district, is well acquainted throughout the six-county area, and has been able to improve services and reduce the county's debt.

Third Circuit Clerk Clark Portell lives in Collinsville, one of four Madison County townships in the senatorial district.

State Rep. Michael Slape, running for re-election in part of that district, was asked for his opinion and told the panel Portell is much better known in the district than Schlarmann, and that Democratic voters reside, Portell was out-of-town Friday and Saturday.

Officials interviewed—also expected to be interviewed—were included State Rep. Gary Hannig. No judicial aspirants were heard, in contrast to the many judges and judge candidates interviewed in the past year.

The candidate receiving the greatest praise during the two days was Madison County School Supt. Gene Briggs, who said he had been in the district since 1978, and that his district's school district superintendents. A statement by them unanimously praised Briggs.

Harrison ruled that all the favorable comments voiced by panel members about Supt. Briggs were appropriate because they were factual in nature.

Albert Wolf, a Madison alderman and school board member, questioned the candidates about minority hiring and on ways to achieve fractional representation rather than bloc voting in party nominating conventions.

The most frequent questioners appeared to be Harrison, Donohoe and Wendell Darr of Oak Grove. Donohoe served as secretary instead of County Democratic Secretary-Treasurer Wolf, since Wolf as a state legislator was among those seeking endorsement.

Also serving on the panel were Hilbert Hoekstra of Madison, representing Venice Township Democrats, Namek Supervisor Harry Briggs, Harrison Reed of Alton (along with Garrett a minority appointment to the panel), Dick Lucas of Collinsville, Roy Wolf of Edwardsville, Blanche Wille of Godfrey, Gene Futch of Chouteau Township and S. Harold "Cotton" Roberts of Alton.

Not present was Dean Seger of Highland.

Decatur questioned the need for the best tax package on 15 percent sales tax and then had switched to 3 percent, to make the total sales tax an even 6 percent. "How much more money do we need?" he asked.

Robert Bell, president of Firefighters Union Local 233, tried to present a 1,000-signature petition protesting any move by the council to close the West Granite Fire Station, but was told the caucus was not the proper time for the presentation. He was advised to present the petition at the regular meeting tomorrow.

"We can't close the (West Granite City) fire station," Whittier contended.

Decatur said that, as far as future personnel cuts are concerned, the only two places left—if the fire and police departments are excluded—is city hall and the street department. He said he has tried making cuts at the wastewater treatment plant, but has been prevented from doing so by the unions representing treatment plant workers.

Decatur said, however, their union had been the only city union to "step forward" and try to help the city.

Decatur contended that the plant could be run by as few as 15 or 16 persons and not the present 26.

Q. I noticed there is a deadline on All-Savers Certificates of December, 1982. In your judgment, do you believe the deadline might eventually be extended?

A. It's quite possible. The deadline would have to be extended by Congress, and whether or not Congress decides on an extension would depend in great part upon the apparent popularity of the All-Savers Certificates. Since the All-Savers Certificate has just been made available, it is a little difficult to predict what may happen. However, judging from the initial reaction, many banks have reported a large public demand for the new savings tool with the tax-free interest bonus (within limits). Therefore, it is quite possible the December, 1982 deadline may receive a Congressional extension. As with many things, we'll have to assume a "wait and see" attitude. An occasional check with your banker will keep you updated on possible developments.

Half of U.S. children have working mothers

More than half the nation's children have mothers who work away from home, the Bureau of Labor Statistics has just determined. About 51.8 million children below age 18 — 54 percent of the nation's total — had mothers in the labor force in March 1981, latest figures show. This number has risen steadily throughout the past decade, even though the size of the children's population has declined substantially.

The most recent year-to-year increase in the number of children with working mothers occurred among those under six years of age. By March, a record 8.2 million (44.9 percent) of all preschoolers had mothers in the labor force, up from 7.7 million (43 percent) a year earlier.

This coincides with the upsurge during the last few years in the number of births among women in their late twenties and early thirties. Of all mothers with children under 18, about 18.4 million, or 35.1 percent, were in the labor force in March, 632,000 more than a year earlier.

Mothers of preschool-age children accounted for the majority (62.5 percent) of this increase.

Regardless of the age of the youngest child, divorced mothers remained far more likely to be working or looking for work than married, widowed, separated, or never-married mothers.

Five other survey highlights:

1. The number of families in which both husband and wife were earners did not increase during the year, perhaps reflecting a more limited job situation. The number of such families remained about the same at 25.6 million.

Median income for these dual-earner families ($27,745 in 1980) was about 3 percent higher than for families where only the husband worked, and nearly triple the income of families maintained by women.

2. In March 1981, one of every six families (16.1 million) was maintained by a woman who was either divorced, separated, widowed, or never married. More than 5.7 million, or 61.0 percent, of these women were working or looking for work, including two-thirds of those with children under 18.

3. On average, married-couple families are only about one-fifth as likely as families maintained by women to have incomes below the poverty level, with the probability depending on the number of earners in the family.

About 16.9 percent of the married-couple families with no earners, but 73.0 percent of no-earner families maintained by women, had incomes below the poverty line in 1980. The proportions for families with two earners or more were 2.6 and 10.0 percent, respectively.

Whatever the number of earners, black and Hispanic families remain more likely than their white counterparts to be in poverty.

4. Among the married couples with children, there were 14.9 million (59.8 percent) where both spouses were earners during 1980. Only 7.0 million (28.2 percent) of these families still conformed to the pattern where the father, but not the mother, had earnings.

Where both parents were earners, 57.7 percent of the families had more than one child. Fewer than 20 percent of the families maintained by women with children had more than one earner and about one-fourth had no earners at all.

5. The number of married women, husbands present, who were in the labor force grew by about 550,000 over the year; their labor force participation rate reached 51.0 percent.

The labor force participation rate of husbands continued to edge down, while the number in the labor force remained essentially unchanged.

Roots of Americans' work ethic

(This is the fifth in a series of 15 articles exploring "Working, Changing and Choices." In this article, Princeton historian Daniel T. Rodgers explores some common beliefs about the work ethic in America. Copyright (c) 1981 by the Regents of the University of California.)

By DANIEL T. RODGERS

"Why do they work so hard?"

That was one of the first questions to perplex sociologists Robert and Helen Lynd in the 1920's as they settled into the Indiana factory town they made famous in their study of "Middletown."

The Lynds were hardly the first to ask this question. For almost a century European visitors had puzzled over what seemed to them the peculiarly hectic tempo of American life.

Why, indeed, have Americans worked so hard, produced so much, and even in their leisure talked so incessantly about work?

The answer begins with a dose of skepticism. Most Americans, even in the 19th Century heyday of the work ethic, probably did not work with peculiar inner commitment—that is, harder than they had to.

Among slaves and masters in the pre-Civil War South, among servants and would-be aristocrats, among frontier settlers and urban factory employees, there was a strong current of resistance to unflagging, clock-disciplined work.

Even the idea that work-time and leisure-time should be neatly divided was not widely shared.

Most Americans who were able to control their work mixed bouts of labor and bouts of recreation in an irregular pattern that was much older than Benjamin Franklin's notion that time was as precious as money.

If the work ethic meant the conviction that work was the main business of life, if it meant fear of the idleness moment, then the resistors were—and are—legion.

THE "MIDDLING" MINORITY Who, then, believed so devoutly in work?

It was largely the subgroup of Americans for whom Benjamin Franklin spoke: Northern, Protestant members of the "middling," property-owning classes.

They might be merchants, small manufacturers, artisans, or farmers. But they had two things in common: they were free men, who owned their own labor; and they were heirs to John Calvin's legacy from the Protestant Reformation.

The now famous connection between the Reformation and work was suggested by the German sociologist Max Weber three-quarters of a century ago in "The Protestant Ethic and the Spirit of Capitalism." The rhythm of medieval life, Weber argued, was as cyclical and irregular as the medieval church's cycle of sin, penance, and forgiveness.

Calvinism, by contrast, stripped its followers of the shelter of a forgiving church. It thrust them naked under the eye of God, and demanded that they so discipline their faith, time and work that they could withstand the scrutiny.

Few religions have so energized the worldly activities of their believers, Weber insisted. Despite the scholarly debate that has ensued, his argument provoked, his basic contention remains convincing.

But faith alone did not make the work ethic. What gave practical force to the belief in the morality of work was the huge amount of relatively open land in America, and the opportunities it released for certain kinds of labor.

Without the example of a leisured, European-style aristocracy, and with labor in short supply, the grandchildren of the Puritans pushed their way into occupations in which, to an unprecedented extent, they could be their own masters; in which there was room for independence and innovation; and in which hard work might pay off in social mobility—modest mobility as a rule, but perhaps (with the luck of a Franklin or a Carnegie) spectacular.

CONVERSIONS AND CONTESTS.

It was where faith and occupation met—among the Yankee middle classes, visible to visiting Europeans—that the work ethic took deepest root.

The subsequent history of that ethic was essentially the attempt of members of that peculiarly powerful minority to imbue a nation with their peculiar convictions.

They spread the work ethic through schools, through penny savings banks, through crusades against drink and for the "Americanization" of immigrants, and above all by changing work itself.

Helped by the social and economic promises of 19th-Century America, their efforts won converts enough to leave the impression that there was no other "American dream" than theirs of hard work, self-discipline, and economic success.

But for all the converts these efforts won, the hand of compulsion was never far away.

Moral and political battles over recreation—over the saloons, dance halls, and Sunday excursion trains—were often fierce.

Fiercer still were the contests over work, which often pitted work-systematizing managers against resistant employees.

From strikes over shorter hours to shop-level disputes—over production levels, attendance, and drinking—American industrial history is full of contention over what work should be and who should control its meaning.

In the end, those imbued with Franklin's faith in systematic work won the crucial battles.

In the name of morality—and of profits—they succeeded in remaking work, tightening its discipline, intensifying its pace, rationalizing its processes, and squeezing its idle moments into a separate category of free time.

The factory was their triumph, and the big clock faces that many factories boasted were a fitting symbol of the revolution in the importance of time and in the nature of work that they embodied.

DEFEAT IN VICTORY. But the victory was an ironic one.

The factory was a triumph of the systematizing ideals unleashed by Calvinism. It produced goods in staggering volume.

But it did so only by undermining the social conditions in which the work ethic had taken root.

The most obvious clash was between the old work ideals and the new industrial work forms. The ideal of control of one's own work collided with sharply tightened work rules and machine-paced work.

The dream of success through sheer hard work was eroded by the vast new scale of enterprise.

The result made many of those who preached the gospel of work increasingly nervous about what was happening to work, its incentives and, above all, its moral content.

But the flaw in the victory of the moralists ran deeper than the contradictions between work as it was and work as in moral theory it was supposed to be.

The moralists and managers had hoped not only to change work but to convert a nation to their peculiar faith in work's moral supremacy; and in this they failed.

Only a tiny handful of Middletown's rank-and-file workers, according to the Lynds, worked as hard as they did out of the inner compulsions of an ethic.

More worked hard because they feared dismissal. But most, the Lynds reported, worked primarily for the money their labor brought.

Like 20th-Century workers everywhere, Middletown blue-collar workers had made an economic bargain with the industrial cornucopia.

They produced not as an act of faith, but in order to buy, and wanting much, they worked hard.

The mainspring of the industrial machine was desire, assiduously fanned by the new managers of advertising.

That instrumental bargain between hard work and consumption is so familiar a part of 20th-Century America that the defeat of the inner core of the work ethic is not always easy to see.

Nor has it been easy to see that, a consumer-demand based, capitalist economy—which works by persuading its constituents to buy—is not particularly fertile soil for a revival of the self-denying injunctions of the work ethic.

Cultures and economies that fan the flames of hedonism with one hand do not easily get committed labor with the other.

But cultures hang on to old moral formulas.

It is one of the ways they keep from disintegrating—even when history is more complex than the clichés, and its moral implications run much deeper.

Next: Michael Maccoby, director of Harvard University's Program on Technology, Work and Character, discusses what is happening to the work ethic today.

About today's author: Daniel T. Rodgers is associate professor of history at Princeton University, having previously taught at the University of Wisconsin.

He is the author of "The Work Ethic in Industrial America," which was awarded the Frederick Jackson Turner Prize of the Organization of American Historians.

Eastern Star installs Worthy Matron Throne, Worthy Patron DeCourcy

Varsenig Harolan Throne was installed as worthy matron and Jack DeCourcy was installed as worthy patron of the Granite City Eastern Star last week at the Masonic Temple.

Candle Lighters were Mary Stuart and Dee Baker, members of Granite Chapter. Installing officers, with their escorts, invited to enter the Chapter Room were Lyle W. Papendick, worthy grand patron of Illinois, installing grand officers, Dorothy Watkins, installing grand chaplain; Donna Kagy, installing grand marshal, and Georgia Odum, worthy matron of the Queen-City chapter. Installing grand officers' escorts were Dona Boyer, Charles Youngs and Joseph C. Bilbrey.

Color Bearer Jimmy E. Stuart, entered with the flag of our country. The Pledge of Allegiance was given and "The Star-Spangled Banner" was sung by all. Ode to the Flag was given by Jim DeCourcy.

The roll of officers was conducted by the installing grand marshal. Forming a semi-circle around the altar, all officers to be installed took their obligations. Varsenig Harolan Throne was escorted to the altar. Soloist Melanie R. Asadorian, accompanied by Elizabeth Ann Nicols, a member of Granite chapter, sang, "Have Thine Own Way, Lord." The International Order of Job's Daughters, No. 43, formed the "Living Cross," as the worthy matron knelt at the altar.

A bouquet from the chapter was presented to the junior past worthy matron, Dona Boyer, and past patrons Granite chapter formed an escorting line. She proceeded to the East. Grand honors were given.

DeCourcy then was escorted to the altar and the song "Bless This House" was sung to him. The James Stuart Chapter of DeMolay presented the 9 o'clock installation. His daughter, Mary, presented him with a bouquet on his way to the East. Grand honors were given him.

A Star Point Ceremony was given by the installing grand marshal, who recited a poem to each point, relative to the significance of her particular station, and gave each a Bible marked at the place where her story was told. The worthy matron and worthy patron were then presented Bibles and gifts from the chapter by the installing grand marshal.

Installation of officers installed was made by the installing grand marshal. Varsenig Harolan Throne, introduced her mistress of ceremonies, Dona Boyer, who made a few pertinent remarks.

Mary then presented the Billie Petrie-Tulley Worthy Matron's Traveling Jewel to the new worthy matron and Orvin presented the Bill Watkins Traveling Jewel to the new worthy patron. Each gave a brief talk.

Varsenig's twin brother, Varsenig Harolan, escorted her and Shirley DeCourcy, Jack's wife, escorted him to the altar for the signing of the Bible. A song, "Climb Every Mountain," was sung to him and the officers as they stood at the altar. They then introduced their families. Lyle Papendick spoke in behalf of the installing grand officers. The outgoing matron and patron were presented a monetary gift by the associate matron, Della Aulbaugh and associate patron, Earl French, from the outgoing corps of officers.

A new tradition was started by DeCourcy, who gave Earl French the Advance Party Candy Bucket and party items. Dorothy Watkins, president of the Past Matron's Club, invited Mary French, junior past matron, to join Mary Bilbrey, last year's inductress, approached the East with a flower arrangement, which she presented to Mary French from her daughter, Mrs. Dianne Westcott, who resides in Florida, and read an original appropriate poem written by Mrs. Westcott, reminding her mother and father that she was thinking of them on this occasion.

The Benediction was given by the Rev. David B. Maxton, pastor of First United Presbyterian Church of Granite City.

Decorations in the Chapter Room consisted of tall, Elecia's Loving Cups attached to the backs of the Star Point chairs. In the East, a silver drape was hung with the words, "My Cup Runneth Over," and thought for the day in red letters and the names, "Vee" and "Jack", on side panels. Travelers hear lecture on Bulgarian culture

The Travelers Abroad held their annual Christmas dinner with guest speakers Dr. and Mrs. Vasil Vasileff, who presented movies on a trip they took to Bulgaria and several other European countries.

Approximately 50 members and guests of the club attended the dinner, where President Mary Evangelou, welcomed guests.

The Vasileffs' trip, made several years ago, was brought up-to-date by comments of Dr. Vasileff, who had recently visited some of the same countries when he was one of about 200 persons invited by the Bulgarian government to attend a three-week international conference. The Vasileffs made the trip over by ship and flew back. After landing in Sherbourg, France, they traveled by car through several countries. Vasileffs called attention to many bridges, which were over 1,000 years old.

According to the Vasileffs, the autobahn in Germany presents a sharp contrast to the streets in the cities and the villages. They said streets were extremely narrow, allowing room for only one car to pass from either direction.

In Bulgaria, the Vasileffs met many relatives for the first time. Vasileff's parents were born in Bulgaria. The club was shown many photographs of the relatives, some of whom are still engaged in carding the wool from their own sheep herds.

Having access to personal cars was still a luxury for some and the Vasileffs reported the small children all wanted their photographs taken inside the car. During the club's business meeting, Mrs. Evangelou reported that Walter Klein from Ernest Rouland would present a suggested slate of officers for 1982 at the January meeting.

The officer will be elected at the next meeting of Travelers on Jan. 25.

Miss Townsend also drew names for attendance prizes at various times during the evening.

The meeting was hosted by Mrs. Hartman of Collinsville and members contributed to a potluck dinner.

Several musical games were participated in by members of the society. Prizes were won by Bea Black, Mrs. Ballentine, Elizabeth Novavich and Howard Austin.

Others attending were Mrs. Frances David, Barbara Williams, Frank David, Helen DeChiara and Guy DeChiara.

The next meeting will be on Jan. 3 at the home of Mrs. Williams.

$2,000 gift to Hospice by 12-year-old GC girl

Help for Hospice of Madison County has come in many forms and none has been appreciated more than a recent donation from a 12-year-old girl.

Kellee Moore, daughter of Dana Moore, 2048 Pontoon Road, wanted to help in some way, but she did not have enough money to make a significant contribution.

Kellee, however, did have one possession of great value, a beautiful dollhouse with an insurance value of $2,000. It was not an easy decision, but she made it. She decided to donate her dollhouse, a gift she received years ago, to Hospice.

The two-story, white frame house, with rooms furnished, "like a Better Home," and Gardens verment, down to the finest detail, such as plush teddy bears and diapers in the nursery, wall hangings and many apples in the kitchen, according to Mrs. Lindner, "would be a dream come true for most persons."

With this in mind, Hospice plans to give the dollhouse to a lucky resident. Persons who are interested in donating for a drawing may do so at the Hospice office in St. Elizabeth Medical Center, in the medical center's cafeteria, or from any Hospice supporter in the community. Donations to aid Hospice will be appreciated, it was added.

Kellee will determine who will get the dollhouse as a gift by drawing from a registered names in Bonaventures Cafeteria in the medical center at noon on Wednesday, Dec. 23.

The Hospice program in Madison County was established by 12 people, all of which volunteered their time and their skills, to give this needed program its existence.

Since that first meeting in October, 1979, the people of Madison County have worked together as a team. They have volunteered anything needed to provide hospice care to the people of the community in need of healing and aid when death is approaching.

The volunteers are men, women and students of all ages. They are teachers, ministers, nurses and doctors. Their support comes in the meeting of the needs of both patients and families. They perform skilled nursing care, run errands, help with household duties, do office work, conduct fund-raising events, and they also reach the community through the Speakers Bureau, according to Rosemarie Lindner, director of public relations for Hospice of Madison County.

One lady makes floral arrangements for patients and some women even make sheets to fit hospital beds for patients at home.

Financial support comes from many different sources in the form of individual donations, memorials, civic and church groups, card clubs, men's and women's organizations, labor and management teams from industries and fund-raising activities.

"We also have had the complete support of St. Elizabeth Medical Center. It has been instrumental in the development of the Hospice program," Mrs. Lindner commented.

Grants have been received from the Southern Illinois Department of Aging, the Madison County Mental Health (708) Board and from Nanticoke Township.

The contributions range from $1 to hundreds of dollars and the ages of the people who are making the donations also are that varied, she stated. Kellee Moore is a perfect example.

In 77 other areas evaluated, the district received passing marks, meaning it meets or exceeds state standards in those educational areas.

The art consultants from the Madison County Teacher Center will provide an in-service program, demonstrating how to integrate art instruction with basics, and furnishing a curriculum guide.

The Madison art instructor will be helping to develop the elementary art curriculum and arrangements are being made for that individual to act as a consultant.

Even though Madison teachers have access to books, films and other materials through a district-wide media center, the team expressed the desirability of a library-media center being established in each building. The district is reviewing this and taking steps to alleviate the need, the official said.

Restitution of $1,452 ordered

Associate Judge Edward Ferguson has ordered Rebecca Furtak, 23, of 2605 Lincoln Ave., to make restitution of $1,452 and to serve one year of probation. The offense of felony theft occurred from July 1980 to February 1981, the Illinois Bureau of Investigation asserted in November. The sentencing took place later at the Third Circuit Court in Edwardsville.

Giants end wild-card hopes for Cardinals

By PETE HAYES
Sports Editor
of the Press-Record

ST. LOUIS — Sometime between noon and 4 p.m. here Sunday, Neil Lomax's magic touch ran out.

Lomax, the rookie quarterback of the St. Louis Cardinals who started the last four games, which the Big Red won, also started Sunday's game against the New York Giants, which the Cardinals lost 20-10.

It was a game that started out brilliantly for the Cardinals. A game-opening drive took the Big Red down to the Giants' 18-yard line. But the drive stalled there. Neil O'Donoghue kicked a 38-yard field goal and St. Louis had itself a 3-0 lead. It was all downhill from there.

The Giants, aided by a turnover-prone Big Red offense jumped out to a 7-3 lead that became 10-3 at halftime. The game was supposed to be of the knock-down-drag-out variety. After all, a possible shot at a wild-card playoff spot hinged on the outcome. Both teams entered the game with identical 7-7 record and were tied with four other NFC clubs with the same mark.

Scratch at least one more team off that list.

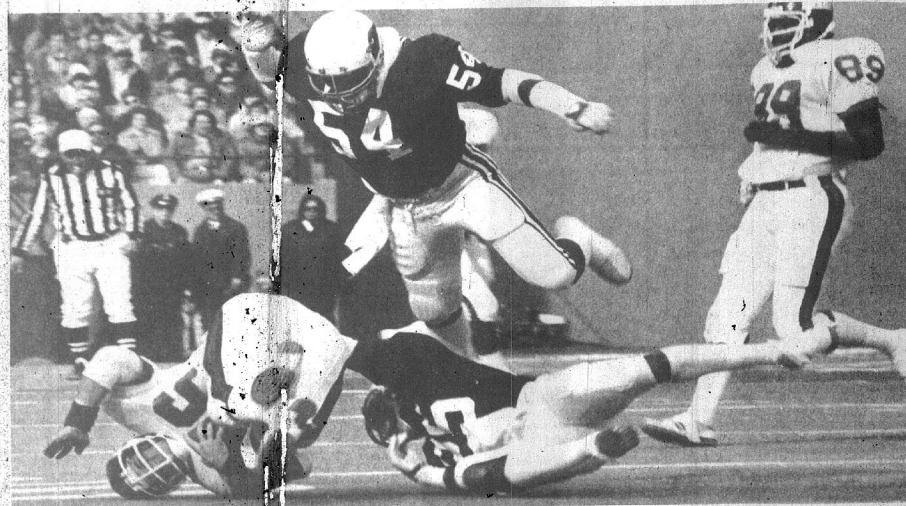

The Giants kept their hopes alive going into next Saturday game against Dallas, which clinched the NFC Eastern Division championship with a 21-10 victory over defending division champ Philadelphia Sunday (scores in today's Scoreboard).

Lomax, the wunderkind who was inserted as the starter four weeks ago in place of veteran quarterback Jim Hart, never did get untracked. And it was his fumble after a crunching tackle that gave the Giants their first touchdown of the afternoon and a lead they never gave up.

After O'Donoghue's field goal, the Cardinals held the Giants on their first offensive series. After taking over after a Dave Jennings punt, Lomax dropped back to pass on first down at his own 30-yard line. He was blind-sided by blitzing linebacker Lawrence Taylor who sacked him with a devastating hit. Lomax fumbled the ball, which bounced right back up into the hands of Giant defensive end George Martin who ran it in for the touchdown. Cardinal tight end Greg LaFleur had a shot and stopping Martin, but the 6-4, 245 pound Martin wouldn't be denied. He dragged LaFleur the last 10 yards into the end zone.

Lomax was shaken up on the play and Hart came in on the next series to call the signals for the Cardinals. But he threw an interception on third down, trying to thread the needle and hit Pat Tilley with a cross pattern pass. Hart and Tilley both read the Giants' blitz well, but Beasley Reece picked off the ball for New York.

The Cards held the Giants again, and Lomax re-entered the game. But he never looked like his old self after the hit by Taylor. He used up two time outs in the first quarter and one early in the second quarter after coming up to the line of scrimmage and seeing the Giants' defensive sets. Cardinal head coach Jim Hanifan said Lomax was still shaken up from the sack. "He was still woozy out there," said Hanifan.

"He was groggy and the Giants' lineups confused him. He did a little better in the second half."

The second half. A carbon copy of the first. Why did Hanifan allow Lomax to remain in the game if he was woozy and didn't have a clear head? Especially when he had a veteran like Hart on the sidelines? "He (Lomax) has to be exposed to these types of situations," said Hanifan. "He'll never get the experience unless he does."

Experience Lomax got. Call it perhaps his first real test of the season, save the first Dallas game of the season when he played because Hart was injured. But the Giants were his first test.

North grapplers now 7-0

HAZELWOOD — The Granite City North wrestling Stealers ran their record to 7-0 here Friday night with a 35-22 victory over powerful Hazelwood East.

The East Spartans won the last two bouts of the match to make the score close.

At 98 pounds, Granite North's Colin Davis defeated East's Jeff Perez easily, 18-0.

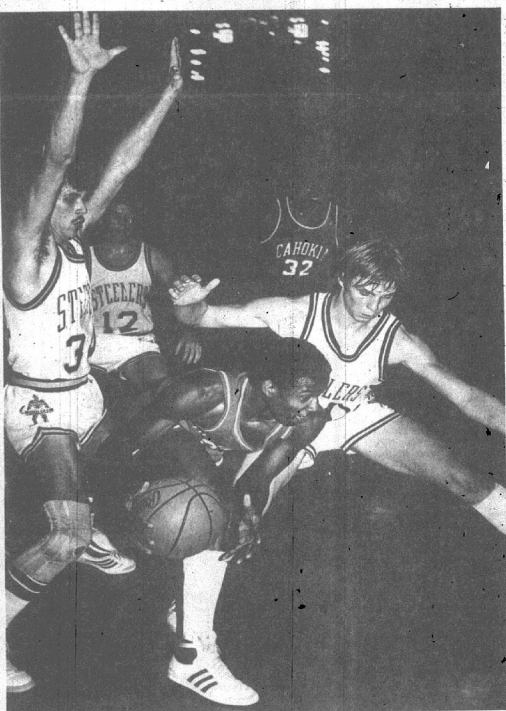

The next three Stealer bouts were by pins. At 105 pound, North's Greg Nemeth pinned Bill Strubell of East in 1:50. Then Dale Bowles pinned Spartan Thane VanBurenegan in 3:36 of their 112 pound bout. At 119, Steve Smith of North pinned Eric Tucker in 3:28 to increase the Stealers' lead.

East's Mark Patakey defeated Mark Whitaker for Hazelwood's first win of the match.

At 132 pounds, Rod Unger of North won a decision from Bill Weber, 6-1. Mat Gentry kept East in the hunt with a 6-1 win over North's Mike Mercer at 138 pounds. Phil Brennecke narrowed the gap even more with a pin of North's Ken Paterson at 5:58 at 145 pounds.

Monty Kessler of North decided Steve Kuithe 10-7 at 155 pounds. Scott Corey pinned East's Russ Little in 3:39 of their 167 pound bout.

In the 185 pound bout, John Morris of North lost a decision to Terry Brown 14-4. In the heavyweight bout, Dave Owens of North was pinned by Gerald Nichols in 2:48.

South stays undefeated

GRANITE CITY — Granite City South kept its prep wrestling mark unblemished here Friday with an easy 5-3 victory over Parkway North.

The victory raised South's record to 7-0 going into this Friday home match with powerhouse Francis Howell of St. Louis, which last season was the Missouri state runnerup. It was Francis Howell which handed the Warriors their only defeat of the season last year.

But this season, the warriors are in a rebuilding year, with many of last season's regulars graduated. "We were in the same situation last year going into Francis Howell," said South coach Red Schmitt. "But they were ready for us and handled us."

"I afraid they're going to be about as good this year as they were last year," said Schmitt. "But maybe we can get our group together and upset them."

Against Parkway North, South had no troubles at all. After South's Phil Millanis won a forfeit decision at 98 pounds, 105 pounder Rob Steiner defeated Darryl Durr 10-0. At 112, Parkway North's Jeff Eissman beat South's Cal Barton 7-0 for his team's only points of the night. But one of those five points earned by Eissman was taken away from the total because of an unsportsmanlike ruling by the referee.

At 119 pounds, South's Mike Trgovich fought to a 2-2 draw with North's Mike Flynn. Joe DeShon got South back on the win track with a 17-3 decision over Fred Montgomery at 126 pounds. At 132 pounds, Sam Givens of South beat Rob Mudd 9-2. At 138, Mike Niebur pinned Don Tillman in 1:39. Carl Barton of South pinned Chuck Laughner at 4:31 in the 145 bout. Jon Frangoulis of South decided Paul Karagannis 5-0 at 155 and Ken Dowdy pinned Dan Niemann at 5:19 at 167.

At 185 pounds, Dave Brown won a forfeit. Doug Graham won the heavyweight bout with a pin of Jim Cannon in 2:38.

GRANITE CITY — Don Deterding is mystified.

After Granite City South's 49-44 loss to Wood River Saturday night, the South coach doesn't know what to do to get his offense moving.

"We played very poorly. Especially offensively, we stunk," Deterding said. "We could have had better shots if we could have moved the basketball."

The inability to move the basketball and attack Wood River's zone defense was South's problem until the fourth quarter. For the first three-fourths of the game, the offense was standing and not making the quick passes needed to break the zone.

"We're afraid to move the ball. We're afraid to shoot," Deterding said. "The type of shots we're making should be hitting."

In the fourth quarter when the offense started penetrating the zone and making the passes inside, South scored 18 points. That was two more points than they scored the entire first half.

South shot 40 percent from the field, making 20 out of 50 shots. Wood River made 19 out of 38 from the field, shooting 50 percent. The game was decided from the free throw line. Wood River made 11 of its 20 opportunities. South shot only nine free throws, making four.

Deterding believes the team is lacking confidence in their offensive abilities. He can not understand why they can play so aggressively defensively and turn around and be so lax on offense.

"They're pressing. I can't understand why they're pressing," Deterding said. "I don't yank them if they miss a shot. I let them play."

What is so frustrating to Deterding is that the team spends the majority of their practice time working on its offense. What is even more frustrating is that in practice, the offense moves the ball, attacks the defense and makes their shots. This has him convinced they are not poor shooters, but he doesn't know what he needs to do to get the offense working in a game.

He wishes some of the hustle and aggressiveness shown on defense would transfer over to the offense. "I'll take 49 point defensive average all year," Deterding said. "It hasn't been our defense that has been causing us problems. It's been our offense, particularly our shooting."

The only complaint he had about their zone defense was that it allowed the lob pass to be thrown into Brian Hendricks. Wood River's 6'3" sophomore center, Hendricks led both teams in scoring with 20 points. Steve Woolley added 12 points for Wood River.

Jim Petty was the only South player who was in double figures, scoring 10 points. Tom Miller had nine points. Darrell Burd, Wood River's coach, said his team's 5-0 record is a surprise to him. They lost seven of their top eight players from last year. Right now, he is starting two seniors, two juniors and one sophomore.

"South got a good defensive ball club," Burd said. "They are a well disciplined ball club. If their shots start falling, they'll beat some teams."

Deterding is confident his team is a good shooting ball team. All he needs to do is to find a method to instill that confidence in his players. "Sooner or later we got to hit fire," Deterding said.

Skaters get first 'on-ice' win of season, 6-2 over McCluer N.

By ROGER KRAMER
for the Press-Record

GRANITE CITY — Harold Dix, coach of the Granite City South hockey team, thought the reason the Warriors had an 1-3 record going into Saturday's game here with McCluer North was because of the lack of teamwork on the Warriors' part.

Dix had to remind his players twice last week about the importance of teamwork. The reminders helped South defeat McCluer North 6-2.

"We haven't been playing as a team because some of the boys were playing as individuals," Dix said. "I told the older boys that if we didn't start playing more as a team, I would sit them down and put in some of our younger players."

He got them on early today, reminding them what I said Thursday, and they really played well as team," Dix added.

There was also a big change in the Warriors' attitudes between team meetings. "In our earlier games, we used to get down on each other and the players were yelling thing to each other. We got them quieted down and supporting each other. 'We wanted them to push each other to do better,'" Dix said.

The Warriors, whose only win of the season before Saturday came on a forfeit, gave up more than five goals in each of their three losses, but South aggressively checked the Stars, cut down on its penalties, and played good team offense and defense. South controlled the tempo of the game from start to finish.

"Our defense, particularly the first line, was very aggressive tonight. They got us started with the first goal, and we held them to just two goals for the game," Dix said.

Gary Brown scored South's first goal on a pass from center Bill Schreiber with at 1:35 of the first period. The Warriors' other goal that period came on a steal by left wing Jeff Jansen at 12:40.

Schreiber won the opening faceoff of the second period for South and passed to Ron Snelson who passed to right wing Darroon Bridick. Bridick then smashed it past Stars goalie Bryan Baskett only eight seconds into the period.

South scored again on an unassisted shot by Tim Phelps with just 58 seconds left in the period.

South's third quarter goals came on an unassisted shot by Brown at 6:05 and on Don Dix's shot at 9:41. Bridick and Brown were credited with the assists. North goalie Kris Hinterer covered most of the shots that came to him. Both the goals that went past him came in the third quarter. Bill Vancil scored for McCluer North at 2:56 of the period, and Jeff Crowder scored the other goal at 7:55.

"Our goalie played an excellent game," Dix said.

South was called for 11 penalties and the Stars 10 penalties in the game.

"We cut down on a lot of the silly penalties we made in our earlier games," Dix said. "Those penalties in the early games really hurt us."

Dix also thought playing before the home crowd helped the Warriors. "The crowd always helps a lot. The boys really wanted to do well in front of them."

South plays McCluer High at the North County rink at 7 p.m. South will not play another home game until Jan. 2 when it hosts Webster Groves.

Venice bounces back to crush Lebanon, 72-43

By ROGER KRAMER for the Press-Record
VENICE — The Venice Red Devils weren't perfect in their 72-43 victory over Lebanon here Friday, but they improved on many aspects of the game since their 80-64 loss to Madison a week earlier.

Against the Trojans, the Red Devils made just 23 of 66 shots from the field and couldn't contain the inside shooting game. Against the Greyhounds, the Red Devils did much better, making 27 of 62 shots from the field and closed down Lebanon's inside game to hold the Greyhounds to just 23 points in the first three quarters. "We had to get started again after what we did against Madison," Venice coach Ken Perkins said. "We had a lot better position for out shots, we jumped out ahead, and we controlled the tempo of the game early."

Lebanon, usually one of the better Class A teams in the area, dropped to 0-4 after the loss. Greyhound coach Wendell Johnson wasn't happy with the way his offense performed. "When you have quarters of eight, nine, and six points, you're not going to win too many games. I was disgusted with the game," Johnson said.

The Red Devils put a lot of points on the board quickly, but the points came in spurts because of Venice's 30 turnovers for the game.

After Harold Milton scored his team's first eight points, with fast break baskets, the Greyhounds eventually piled within five points, in the second quarter because of Venice turnovers.

However, the Red Devils did manage one large scoring spurt in the second quarter that put the game out of reach. Venice, getting help with the fast break, scored 13 points in less than three minutes. Venice's lead increased from 15-10 to 28-12 in that span.

"We found out they didn't like pressure so we put it on them heavy in the second quarter. We went from 15-10 to 28-12 and we wanted to blow it out by halftime," Perkins said. The Red Devils were ahead 32-17 at halftime and cruised through the rest of the game.

The biggest key to Venice's success was its defense. Lebanon made just 25 percent of its shots (18 of 72) and was forced to take low percentage outside shots for most of the game. The Greyhounds also committed 20 turnovers.

Even though the Greyhounds had a starting line-up consisting of three 6-3 players, it was the smallest player for Lebanon, Robert Jackson, who had to do the scoring.

"The defense really improved a lot since the Madison game," Perkins said. "They had a lot of big players, but we made them shoot from outside."

"If we could keep a team under 10 points every quarter, I'd be happy. If we could keep teams to 45 points a game I'd be happy," Perkins said. "We held East St. Louis and Lovejoy to around 60 points, and I was pleased with that. When we went back to our size bracket, tonight, we held them to 43, and that's good for a school close for size."

Comanche comeback defeat for Steelers, 59-57

By TERESA GULL of the Press-Record
GRANITE CITY — Bill Ohlendorf, Granite City North coach, had just one complaint about their Friday night game against Cahokia — the final score.

Staggering away a 10 point fourth quarter lead, North fell to Cahokia 59-57.

"I'm not displeased with the basketball game, I'm just displeased we lost. We didn't execute in the fourth quarter," Ohlendorf said.

What I'm displeased with is that we were up 50-40 in the fourth quarter and we didn't put them away."

It looked like a completely different North team out on the court the fourth quarter.

Free throws were not made. Lay-ups were missed. They lost control of the ball game and played into Cahokia's quick style of play.

Ken McBride, Cahokia coach, thought tempo was the key to the game. He felt his team didn't start playing aggressively until the fourth quarter.

"We felt fortunate to only be three down after the first half," McBride said. "We were lacking aggressiveness in the first half. Once we got them playing our game, we were OK."

It was all Cahokia the fourth quarter. With 30 seconds remaining in the game and the score tied at 57-57, Cahokia's Mark Avery stole the ball. He was fouled by North's Carl Luehmann. Avery made both free throws to give Cahokia the victory.

Defensively, Ohlendorf was pleased with the way they contained Cahokia's quickness and jumping skills.

"We were scared to death of their quickness coming in," Ohlendorf said. "I thought we did give them a lot of second attempts under the basket."

McBride felt North did a good job rebounding. "They screened us off well. They were well prepared," McBride said. "We just feel fortunate to leave here with a victory. "Granite City North played a heck of a ball game. We knew they were going to be tough."

Both teams featured balanced scoring attacks. Cahokia's Mark Avery led all scorers with 16 points. Cahokia was also paced by John Sweeney with 13, Larry Myers with 10 and Stacey Blackman with 10.

North was led by Steve Tripp with 9 and Carl Luehmann, both with 12, Harold Rody with 11, and Terry Martin and Mike Sullivan, both with 9.

The win raised Cahokia's record to 3-0 on the season. North fell to 2-2.

Pinckneyville leads all the way in win over Madison

PINCKNEYVILLE — Defending Illinois 1A state champion Madison dropped its second game of the season here Friday night, 81-66 to Pinckneyville.

The Panthers, now 5-0 on the season, led all the way, in defeated the Trojans, who dropped to 2-2 on the season.

Madison was coming off a pair of impressive victories. The Trojans defeated arch-rival Venice last weekend and Tuesday night handed 2A power Edwardsville a one-point defeat. But Pinckneyville, which returns several starters from last season's Carbondale Super-Sectional qualifying team, was hot Friday.

Wade Graskewicz and Randy Rushing were nearly a one-man show for the Panthers. They combined for 60 points in the game. Graskewicz scored 33 points and Rushing poured in 36.

A packed-house of screaming Pinckneyville fans watched as their team jumped out to a 10-6 lead at the end of the first quarter and a 36-28 halftime lead.

The Panthers outscored the Trojans 20-14 in the third quarter and 25-24 in the fourth quarter.

Carvell Claggett scored 16 points for the Trojans. Mark Zarr, Madison's 6-6 center, scored 15 points and pulled down 12 rebounds. Mark Madgett added 14 points.

As hot as Pinckneyville was, it was free throws that won the game. Both teams scored 28 times from the floor, but the Panthers had a whopping 25-10 advantage in free throws. Madison was called for 29 fouls, Pinckneyville for 22.

Lewis and Clark helping State out

NORMAL — If Duffy Bass taught history, his favorite explorers would have to be Lewis and Clark.

Bass coaches baseball and teaches physical education at Illinois State University.

He's fond of Lewis and Clark, the community college in Godfrey, because it's supplied his most recent baseball teams with top notch players.

Lewis and Clark coach Artid Copeland has sent three players on to ISU for the completion of their college careers: pitcher Don Bortini, infielder Jim Rhoads and outfielder Scott Thies.

Bass likes Copeland's approach during recruiting. "He is a real gentleman and he won't oversell his players," said Bass, who has been recruiting baseball players to ISU for 18 years.

Lewis and Clark has proven to be a great stepping-stone for college players and coach Copeland has a lot to do with that.

The players have more than lived up to expectations at ISU.

Bergini was a staff leader during the 1980 and 1981 seasons, posting a 12-5 record and 97 strikeouts in 125 innings. The right hander from Gillespie pitched in the Minnesota Twins organization last summer and is completing his degree now.

"Borgini is right up there with some of the best pitchers I've coached," said Bass, who has coached a number of top hurlers, including former National League Earned Run Average champion Lee "Buzz" Capra.

When alcohol is the driver, nobody's safe! It doesn't take a large amount to do a lot of damage. Even one drink can cloud judgement and slow reflexes enough to hamper fast thinking and total control at the wheel. At holidays when many people celebrate 'to the limit,' steer clear of disaster. If you take a drink, don't take the driver's seat... and make it a HAPPY New Year!

Some of the provisions of the new law are:

- Allows testing of breath, blood, or urine for alcohol or drug content of any person who drives a motor vehicle, if arrested.
- Eliminates the one and a half hour waiting period previously allowed before administering the blood, breath or urine test to determine alcohol or drug levels.
- Requires that the officer warn the person that refusal to take a test will result in suspension of license.
- Suspends driver's license for 6 months if the person refuses to take the test and is convicted the first time; and 12 months for the second and each subsequent such arrest and refusal within 5 years.

Rep. Wolf was also the cosponsor of another bill this session that was aimed at strengthening the drunk driving law in Illinois. That measure, HB 143, was virtually identical to the bill which became law and was tabled when the Senate Bill passed both Houses. "I believe this new law is a step in the right direction. We must stop this senseless slaughter on our highways in Illinois," Wolf said.

Representative Wolf and Senator Vadalabene are both currently serving on the Motor Vehicle Laws Commission. The Commission was responsible for researching the new drunk driving law and made the recommendations to the General Assembly which resulted in the passage of the legislation in its current form.

from the desk of

REP. SAM WOLF • 56th District

Dear Friend,

I am pleased to send this report on the 82nd General Assembly. This session has been a productive one. It has produced some disappointments and many accomplishments. We have held the line on spending while trying to make up for cut-backs, in social programs, at the federal level. Many of the existing services have been trimmed of excess administrative costs to make them more efficient. This was chosen as the best option rather than raising your taxes.

I was particularly proud to be a cosponsor of a new tough drunk driving law for our state. It was sorely needed to protect our friends and family from drunk drivers on the road.

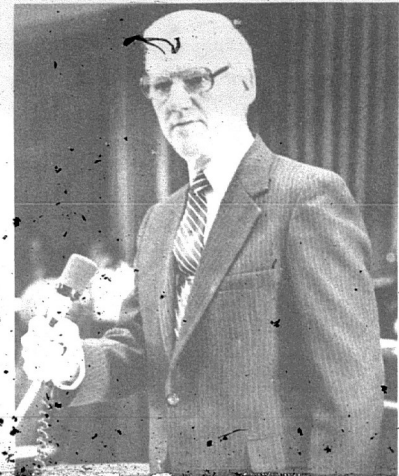

Labor and business fared well this session. A compromise was reached on unemployment compensation that was agreeable to both interests early in the session. Coupled with a favorable court ruling, the unemployment problems in Illinois are on the way to a solution.

Some measures, such as the elimination of the state inheritance tax, have been postponed until the Spring session of the legislature.

Of course there were some problems that defied solution. The condition of our roads is continually deteriorating, however, an ongoing effort to put together a program is progressing even though the legislature is not in session. I sincerely hope that a compromise that is acceptable to upstate and downstate is reached soon.

Below you will find highlights of the issues that affect the residents of our area. As always, if you want to know about any of these issues I will be happy to be of service to you.

Sincerely,

Tough Drunk Driving Bill Signed Into Law

Approximately 26,000 persons are killed on the nation's highways every year in traffic accidents involving drunk drivers. Rep. Sam Wolf has done something about this problem in Illinois. He cosponsored a tough drunk driving bill in the Legislature this session.

The bill was signed into law by the Governor August 20, 1981, and takes effect January 1, 1982.

"This bill closes loopholes in the Implied consent law and makes it easier to enforce," Wolf said.

REPRESENTATIVE SAM WOLF SHAKES HANDS WITH SENATOR SAM VADALABENE WHILE HOLDING A COPY OF THE NEW DRUNK DRIVING LAW THEY WORKED ON TOGETHER.

If you are having trouble with the state bureaucracy and need help cutting through red tape, please call or write to the following offices and if I am not available either my secretary or my aide, Jim Grandone, will be happy to be of service to you.

UNEMPLOYMENT COMPENSATION COMPROMISE

Representative Sam Wolf said he supported the unemployment insurance compromise bill as the "best possible solution that is fair to all sides."

The bill which was worked out in a three-day meeting between labor and employer representatives, was signed into law on July 3, 1981 and takes effect immediately, makes basic changes in unemployment insurance saving more than $256 million and cuts the State's debt to the federal government.

The compromise insures that most workers will continue to receive most of the current benefits, while making some changes including a switch from a twice-yearly to annual adjustment in benefits. The bill reduces the cost of doing business in Illinois and stops the great tax increases the federal government would have imposed. At the same time it assures the unemployed that the fund will not go bankrupt.

"The State currently owes the federal government $1.4 billion and will owe it more than $2 billion by the end of the year if the changes are not made," Wolf said. Under this compromise the State will be able to reduce the anticipated amount of borrowing for next spring, and eventually end the borrowing altogether and balance the Unemployment Insurance Trust Fund.

"The compromise is not perfect but it is the best possible solution that is fair to all sides," Wolf said.

DOMESTIC VIOLENCE LEGISLATION

Representative Sam Wolf supported House Bill 366 which passed both Houses. The bill creates the Illinois Domestic Violence Act. It allows circuit courts to issue orders of protection to prohibit the respondent from striking, threatening or harassing the petitioner or her children.

Such orders may also require the respondent to leave the residence or provide alternate housing for the petitioner, award temporary child custody or visitation rights, require temporary child support payments, pay attorney's fees and pay actual damages to the petitioner.

Violations of such orders of protection, involving violence or harassment of the petitioner at her residence, would constitute a Class A misdemeanor (1 year, $1,000). The bill also allows law enforcement officers to make warrantless arrests for such protection order violations and other violent or sexually oriented offenses. The bill mandates greater cooperation on the part of law enforcement agencies.

The bill, as amended, also modifies the traditional concept of spousal immunity with respect to torts in Illinois. Presently, such suits are barred. This bill will allow spouses to sue each other for intentional torts when the spouse inflicted physical harm.

The bill was signed into law by the Governor on September 24, 1981.

NURSING HOME LEGISLATION

Representative Sam Wolf supported legislation this session that would simplify admission to nursing homes. It provides that the written contract may be executed between the facility and a member of the person's immediate family. Such a contract is required upon admission to a nursing home facility or when there is a change in the source of payments for the residents care.

The bill also provides that a person may be admitted to a nursing home facility before the execution of a contract if no member of the person's immediate family will execute the contract and the person is too disabled to do so.

Another provision of the bill adds that no adult shall be admitted to a facility if he or she objects, orally or in writing except as otherwise provided by law.

The bill is a good example of citizen input into the legislative process introduced as a result of hundreds of objections from residents of the district. Most complained of both the complicated process as well as the increased expenses of providing a guardian.

The bill was signed into law by the Governor on August 12, 1981.

CURBING CHILD ABUSE

Legislation that would give more protection to abused children passed both houses of the General Assembly this session. House Bill 487 contains the following provisions:

- a) Expressly provides that a court may not return a minor under protective care and not return him/her home until it finds that placement is unnecessary;
- b) Provides that the court may authorize a physician or hospital to render medical, dental or surgical care to a minor; and expressly provides under the Abused and Neglected Child Reporting Act that emergency treatment can be rendered without court authorization if there is a risk of harm due to delays in applying for and obtaining permission under the Juvenile Court Act.
- c) Clarifies the civil and criminal immunity for physicians who consent to or provide emergency treatment;
- d) Makes several changes recommended by the Department of Children and Family Services including (1) authorization for the Department to retain a listing of unfounded cases, where the subject of the report requests that it not be expunged because he suspects it was intentionally false—i.e., the subject alleges the report to be harassment; (2) disorderly conduct penalties for any person who knowingly transmits a false report to the Department; and (3) access to abuse and neglect investigation reports and records by law-enforcement agencies, physicians, courts and child welfare agencies of other states involved in suspected and indicated cases.

Signed into law September 15, 1981.

WOLF URGES CONGRESS TO SUPPORT INDUSTRIAL DEVELOPMENT BONDS TO SAVE JOBS

Representative Sam Wolf cosponsored a House Resolution calling upon the federal government to support industrial development bonds.

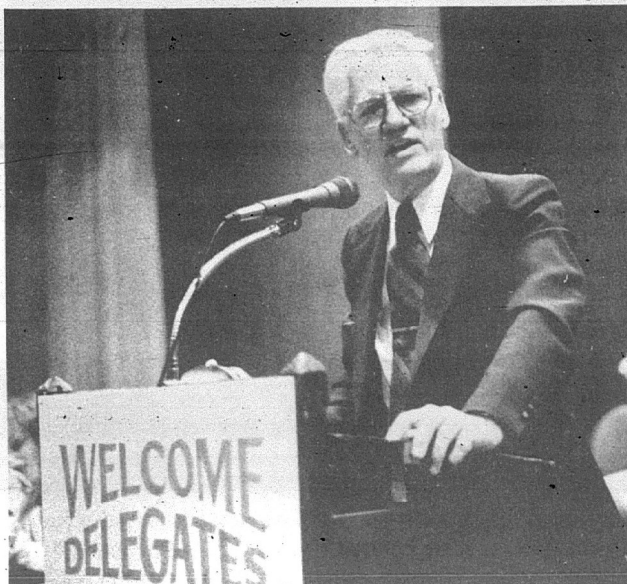

Industrial development bonds are issued by governments to create capital for manufacturing and retail firms. Since they are government issued the investor's return on the bonds is tax free, making the bonds competitive with other investments.

"There are several proposals before Congress to eliminate the bonds or remove their tax-exempt status," Wolf said.

"Either of these proposals would cripple a program that creates jobs and in the long run more than pays for itself," Wolf said.

Wolf said the bonds have helped create more than 46,000 additional jobs in Illinois during the past seven years.

"Studies have shown that the revenue gained from the salaries created from projects assisted by the bonds is far greater than the revenue that would be gained by removing the exemptions," Wolf said.

REPRESENTATIVE WOLF ADDRESSING THE DELEGATES TO THE AFL-CIO CONVENTION IN SPRINGFIELD.

NEW LAW DESIGNED TO PROTECT SENIOR CITIZENS AGAINST ATTACKS

Crimes against the elderly have increased significantly in recent years. When law enforcement authorities do catch criminals who prey upon the weaknesses of the elderly, they often lack the legal tools to deal severely with the criminal. Representative Wolf supported a measure in the Legislature which would give judges a significant new sentencing tool in dealing with senior citizen crime.

The bill, which became law September 17, allows a judge to consider the age of the victim when deciding what punishment or imprisonment is appropriate for the convicted criminal. This would allow the judge to give a criminal the maximum penalty allowed because of the circumstances of the crime against a person 60 years of age or older. "If prosecutors and judges use this sentencing tool aggressively in dealing with senior crime, it will serve as a deterrent to such crimes," Wolf said.

REPRESENTATIVE WOLF AND HIS LEGISLATIVE AIDE, JIM GRANDONE, DISCUSS LEGISLATION IN THE CAPITOL OFFICE.

TOUGH RESIDENTIAL BURGLARY BILL BECOMES LAW

As residential burglaries increase in our neighborhoods so should the penalty for such a crime. That is the spirit of a new law creating the crime of residential burglary. The crime is defined as "knowingly entering the dwelling place of another with the intent to commit a felony or theft." The most important aspect of this new law is that it changes the sentence for the crime of burglary which is currently a Class II felony (3-7 years) to a Class I felony (4-15 years) for a residential burglary. The category of "burglary" will remain in effect for burglary involving a commercial establishment.

Another aspect of the new law is that it eliminates probation for residential burglars.

"The citizens of Illinois have a right to feel safe in their homes. This measure will serve notice to anyone who is thinking about breaking into another person's home that they will go to jail. No probation, no weekend jail terms, and they will stay in jail for 4 to 15 years. A lot of burglars will think twice about that," Wolf said.

The new law takes effect on January 1, 1982.
